thus explains it: If you establish New York as your prime meridian, and dis-satch two ships around the work, one by the route of the Cape of Good Hope, and the other by Cape Horn, they will when they meet on the other side of the globe, differ a day in their time ; it may be Saturday on board of one ship and Sonday on board of the other. This is owing to the fact that the planet on which we dwell revolves to the eastward, and the sun appearing first in the east, it is noon, or twelve o'clock, on board of the eastern bound skip, before it is noon on board of the western bound ship. The ship sailing east gains thus every day, while the ship sailing west oses time, and when they meet the diference of time will amount to a day. fe adds that at Samoa be found the Protestant and Catholic missionaries celebrating different days, and both were right, because they sailed by dir-

us we call them, of any old, thick cloth, by catting the largest one two inches across, round of corrse; the second size, one and a half inches across; the smallest, one inch. Have a great contrast in the color. If the large one is black, have the second drab and the small one blue. If the large one is drab, have the second black and the small and searlet. Sew them upon the foundation, one in the contre, six around it, twelve around that, then twenty-four, and so on. When the foundation is covered, line with old bed-ticking, if you have it, or old calleo, or an old sheet—indeed, with almost anything you happen to have on hand. Then blud around, and the mat is done. You may be surprised to find it six-saided when done, if i do not tell you it will be. You can make it square or long, by sewing the buttons on in rows instead of round and round. The buttons are made by sewing one apon the other, as we fell a seam, sewing the smallest one on the second size, and the second size on the hargest. Have all the luttons of one row allke.
